THE EVENING CRITIC. ESTABLISHED AUGUST, 1868.

AMUSEMENTS.

Ford's Opera-house.

This evening Mr. Wm. C. Mitchell's famous three-act musical extravaganza, "Our Goblins; or, Fun on the Rhine," will be given at Ford's Opera-house and continued throughout the week with mattines performances on Wednesday and Saturday afternous at 2 n. m. The plat day and Saturday afternoons at 2 p. m. The plot of the play is the pocultarly humorous experience of American tourists in Germany. It is a quaintly, clever blending of the antique with the modern, and is pronounced as a perfec-Litte.

Mademoiselle Litta will this evening give a grand concert at Lincoln Hail. This popular American artist is supported by an admirable company, and the reputation which she has won in musical circles is well-merited in every respect. The exceedingly reasonable rates of admission and the splendid character of the concert, and all of the participants therein guarantees a fine audience. There are still a few destrable seats for sale at Metzerott's, on Pennsylvania avenue, between Ninth and Tenth streets.

Tenth streets.

National Theatre.

To-night Miss Mary Anderson, America's sole queen of tragedy, enters upon a week's engagement at the National. We doubt if at any period in the history of the drama an actress of the school which Mary Anderson represents, a school made deservedly famous by her marvelous beauty and superb genius perfected by study, has achieved such a national sind world-wide reputation. In other days Julia Dean was the intense sensation of the stage, but not even she attained the national recognition of genius and art combined tendered from all sections of our country and from European sources to Miss Anderson.

Young, beautiful and blessed with a semi-divine grace of manner and gracefulness and power of the acting mind she is prominent in the list of stage herolnes, by reasons of her capacity as an actress and purity of merit as a sirl. She commands at all times respectful admiration and applause.

Her company this season is excellent. We could not say so much for it during the last, but the support of this winter is relatively worthy of the star with whom it is associated. Miss Anderson opens to-night in "Romeo and Juliet." As the audiences are always large wherever Miss Anderson appears, it will be well to engage seats for the week early.

The Theatre Comique. During the present week the Theatre Comique presents a bill of unexceled bril-liancy. The attractive features are of a varied character, and the finest artists of the variety stage appear upon its boards. The usual matinee performance will be given to-morrow at 2:30 p.

Talmage's Lecture. Bey, T. De Witt Talmage, the eminent pulpit orator of New York, will deliver his lecture on "Big Blunders" at the Congregational Church on Weduesday night next. This is his finest lecture, and is in all respects highly attract-ive. Seats can be secured at Brad. Adams, F street near Ninth.

Judge Cox's Crank Correspondent.

Judge Cox yesterday sent a note to the authorities requesting that the author of an inauthorities requesting that the author of an in-closed letter should be hunted up, and, as he was evidently a "crank," caged at St. Eliza-heth's. The letter referred to was addressed to "His Honor Judge Cox, the Court and boss of the Guiteau trial, at Washington, D. C.," and was signed by "J. W. Shively, the True Mes-siah." In the letter the writer states that Gui-teau is endeavoring to exculpate himself of the crime which his innate deviltry suggested by blaming it on the Deity.

"Now, Your Honor, if you call me to the stand as the Messiah to answer the charge made by the prisoner Guiteau, if I say the Delty is responsible Guiteau is innocent, if not, he is guilty."

Delty is responsible Guiteau is innocent, it not be is guilty."

This unique proposal is couched in a long, curious document which is difficult to comprehend, but it several times reiterates that the "Awful Majesty" should be brought to answer Guiteau's charge. John Connell, the sanitary officer, investigated the case, and found Mr. Shively at No. 414 Sixth street northwest, this morning, and arrested him.

Shively is an impressive looking and ancient "crank," with snowy hair and a very high forchead, and says he is a resident of Saratoga. Springs and is a traveling agent of a steel pen.

Springs and is a fraveling agent of a steel pen, which he invented, as well as being the Mes-siah and the apy of the Christian religion. The venerable "craik" talks incessmily, denoun-ing alternately Christianity and all Christians ing alternately Christianity and all Christians and the assassin Guiteau.

Mr. Connell says he will have the man temporarily sent to the Insane Asylum.

Greater interest is added to this case by a sustement which Shively made when he first arrived in the city, but which he refuses to repeat that would indicate that he is the crank who was arrested near Chicago some time ago with papers on his person which started a theory of a compiracy to assassinate Gen, Garfield, It is impossible to substantiate this fact, as Shively refuses to say anything on the subject.

The Lady Rosalie.

The lady Rosalle.
The wind crept softly over the sea,
With stealthy tread, so treacherously,
And its steps gleamed white
In the shimmering light
Of the silver moon;
And the sea was crooning a lullaby
Of a maiden bright,
Fair to the sight
As a sunny noon;
O, sweetest of sweet maidens she!
Sweet is the Lady Rosalle!

"Each night she comes and stands by me,
And tells me all her misery,
With questioning eyes
And 'plaining cries
Like eaged bird's song:
'O sea, eea, sea! O cruel sea,
Bring him to me!
Why tarries he
So long, so long?'
O saddest of sad maidens she!
Sad is the Lady Rosalie!

"And now she sleeps upon the strand,
Her fair head pillowed on the sand,
And in her ear
I whisper clear,
'Your lover's true.
From other clime and other land,
Across the track
I bring him back
To love and you.'
O gladdest of glad maldens she!
Glad is the Lady Rosalle!"

The wind strode flercely over the sea,
With mighty tread, so cruelly!
And, tempest-tossed,
A ship was lost
Beneath the wave.
Then he laughed aloud in savage glee:
"O, pitying sea,
Where now is he
Whom you would save?
Saddest of maidens will she be,
Your own fair Lady Rosalle!"

The morn is bright, and by the sea
One walks with Lady Resalle!"
And in her eyes
The love-light Hes,
And glad her seng:
"O, kindly sea, so dear to me,
Since you have brought
Him whom I sought
So long, so long!"
G gladdest of glad maldens she!
The happy Lady Resalle!

Hon. H. H. Riddleberger, the prominent Re adjuster from Virginis, is expected here to day. He will proceed at once to Richmond, where he will remain until after the Senatorial ction, which takes place on the 20th ins Mr. Riddleberger will be accompanied by Mr. Morgan M. Moore, of the Shenandoah Valley, and several other leading Readjusters. A representative of THE Cartric met the latter gentleman at the Metropolitan Hotel this morning

"You seem to be confident?" said the newsman.

"I have reasons for being confident," said Mr. Moore. "Mr. Riddleberger is, in my opinion, entitled to the Senatorship, and I feel sure that the Legislature will do its duty and elect him."

"What about the candidacy of Lieutenant-Governor-slect Lewis?"

"I believe," said Mr. Moore, "that there are a few members of the Legislature who, by way of complimenting Mr. Lowis, will vote for him on the first and possibly two or three succeeding ballots, but he will ultimately be withdrawn and Mr. Riddleberger elected."

"Is there not a movement on foot on the part of the Republican members of the Legislature to vote solidly for Mr. Lewis?" asked The Carric.

to vote solidly for Mr. Lewist and Carrio.

"There are no Republican members of the Virginia Legislature. That element enlisted under the banner of the Readjusters cause, and were elected as Readjusters. Hence I say they will vote for the choice of more than ninetenths of the Readjusters of the State—Harry H. Riddleberger—who is a bold, brave and progressive man."

December Term of the Criminal

Court. In order to expedite business as rapidly as possible and keep the machinery of his court in moving order, Justice Cox convened the Deember term of the Criminal Court at 10 o'clock purpose of organizing the juries for the new this morning in the Circuit Court-room, for the purpose of organizing the juries for the new term. It being expected, as it proved, that the Criminal Court-room would be crowded by parties interested in witnessing the Guiteau trial, which would greatly interfere with the transaction of business, His Honor took a change of venue in order to avoid the crowd and complete the requisite work of his court.

The list of grand jurors was first called, and twenty jurors responded to their names. The following were excused: Ira N. Burritt, David Jackson, Caleb Churchman (foreman of the last grand jury), George Neitzy, Frederick H. Cobb, Frederick Rush and Jeremiah Cross, Peter Taltaval and Jeremiah Downing were returned not found. The Court obtained fourtien out of the list, and talesmen were ordered to fill the vacancies.

The petit jurors were then called, and all answered excepting two, W. H. Dongal, Thomas J. Miller, W. H. H. Cissel, Henry Kengla, William Knowles, H. A. Griswold, John H. Dunlop, Thomas O. Arnold, Andrew W. Kelly, Johnson Green and James W. Cavanaugh were excused. The marshal was ordered to fill the vacancies, and the term was adjourned until Monday next.

A Probable Murder.

Dan Toumey's saloon, at the corner of Third and L streets, South Washington, was the scene last night of another bloody fight, which may, perhaps, result in death toone of the parties. All day yesterday a number of negro rowdies were at Toumey's saloon, and after getting drunk, became noisy and turbulent, and three of them. Walter Bland, Mose Winters and Bobert Brooks, set upon and best James H. Williams, also colored, in a most horrible manner. They knocked the poor fellow down, and one of the parties hit him over the head with a beer cask, inflicting a frightful wound. They then began to kick and beat him until the unfortunate man lost consciousness. The brutes left their victim in an insensible condition and made their escape. The case was given to Officers Howell and Branson, who, after two or three heurs' vigilant search succeeded in bagging all three of the parties and safely lodging them in the station house. The case came up in the Police Court this morning and the prisoners were committed to await the injuries of the wounded man, if its to be hoped that Judge Snell will give the guilty parties their just desserts. Drs. Leech and Crook, who attended Williams, say that his wounds are of a serious nature, and requested Judge Snell to continue the case.

Laura Bridgman and Mrs. Garfield.
Laura Bridgman, the blind deaf mute, wrote a sympathetic little note to Mrs. Garfield in regard to her wounded husband, shortly after he was struck down by the shot of the assassin. Mrs. Garfield, in replying to it said;
"Mr DEARMISS BRIDGMAN; I have just received your letter, and while I thank you, I am filled with wonder that from out the silence and darkness of your life you can speak to me. When I was a very little girl I heard of you, and I have always foil that your spirit must be a great deal stronger and brighter than that of any ordinary mortal, to enable you to do so well what we with all our faculties are only able to do. I think the President will receiver, and it will be a great pleasure to him to know that you remembered him in his suffering. With great admiration and regard, your friend, Laura Bridgman and Mrs. Garfield.
